Dior at the doorstep of India

Fall 2023 Collection

By Shubanvitha Myla (XI MPC)

"Each village of India has its own identity, and that story is toldthrough craft. So that is what we are looking to represent."
-Maria Grazia, Creative Director of Dior.

"It's so wonderful to celebrate with the world or be able to tell a story of innate wisdom and absolute craft excellence of our artisan community"
- Karishma Swali, CEO
& MD, Chanakya
International.

The fashion house 'Dior' makes a notable entrance in India this year to showcase one of their best collection yet. This magnificent collection was forged by Maria Grazia and her dear friend and coworker Karishma, with whom she has worked for over two decades. Each piece of garment was handwoven and hand embroidered to perfection. The impressive needlework seen throughout is done by the talented and most hardworking women of Chanakya School of Craft. The Dior 2023 fall was held at the India Gate with impeccable planning in the environment in mind. As they have recycled over 60% of the waste generated because of the show. For this, Dior deserves a round of applause.

CANADIAN GP

By Geethika Bellamkonda (XI AEC)

The Canadian grand prix start off with the "light out and the way we" where max verstappen takes the lead and we've got Fernando Alonso and Lewis Hamilton behind.

The session was held under stable but drying wet conditions, and all the drivers from the top teams succeeded to progress into the second part of the session, though Pierre Gasly may have felt hard done, as Ferrari's Carlos Sainz held him up in his final attempt. On the other hand, in the second part of the session, drivers switched to dry tires for a few minutes. The window of dry tires, however, was short, as the rain began to fall again and both Perez and Leclerc were caught out by the speed of events, as both of them made the switch too late and thus were eliminated. The final part of the session was held in wet conditions again, and Verstappen was the early pacesetter once more, but a red flag caused by Oscar Piastri's crash foiled the laps of many of his rivals, allowing Haas driver Nico Hulkenberg to finish the session in the second place, followed by Alonso and the two Mercedes drivers

SPIDER-MAN: ACROSS THE SPIDER-VERSE

This visual treat of a movie hit the big screens on the first of June and was met with much enthusiasm from the Indian audience. Every frame of this movie is gorgeous! So much so that you don't want to blink in fear of missing out even a second.

The audience appreciated the development of Gwen's character, especially her scenes with Shea Whigham's Captain Stacy are truly special. One can barely wait for the third one.

Transformers: Rise of the Beasts

After being disappointed with Age of Extinction, loathing The Last Knight, and being one of the few that disliked Bumblebee. But, this one is fantastic. They fixed so many of the issues that plagued the last three movies.

Even the Transformer characters are significantly more fleshed out. I felt for them. There is an actual story instead of nonsense to move the plot forward. You don't even have to turn your brain off to enjoy

Psychology facts that are sure to sike you out!!!

By Sree Tulasi (XI MPC)

- 1. If you sob out of happiness the first tear will come out from the right eye but if you cry out of sorrow it will come from the left eye.
- 2. During the 7 minutes of neural activity you will have before dying you will see your memories in a dreamlike pattern.
- 3. Another interesting fun fact about psychology is that it keeps us fascinated as humans are always curious about knowing their minds better.
- 4. If we have a plan b our plan a is less likely to succeed.
- 5. A hug longer than twenty seconds will produce hormones in your body that makes you trust the individual who is hugging you
- 6. Singing reduces feelings of depression and anxiety.
- 7. Some of us are actually afraid of being too happy because of the fear that something tragic might happen next

IS GAMING EVIL?

By Spoorthi Narra (XI MPC)

Some people fiddle around with video games all day long. It would be easy to assume that they must be addicted to gaming and even be influenced by 8t. However, a study by psychologists from the MU Faculty of Social Studies tackles this absurd theory on gamers. The study involved nearly 10000 zestful gamers and found that only a small percentage show real signs of addiction/violent enslavement. Gaming just like music or movies serves as a mood lifter. They relieve people from everyday stress and struggles and help them come to terms with their psychological distress. For some, they play an even bigger role, according to Blinka. During major life transitions like from secondary school to university or during examinations they are used as a crutch. Gaming through these stressful situations soothes them and brings them a state of calmness. So when it comes to the question "Are games really violent?" the answer is straight up No! Psychologically, online gaming is only a serious problem for a relatively small part of the population. Henceforth, we shall stop having these negative misconceptions about gaming for it isn't as harmful as commonly thought.
